

Comments of a Bon Vivant:

Orange blossom, ripe strawberry and cherry with a hint of cardamom; powerful but fresh. Save it for a special dinner or a collector friend.

Viticultores de Lapuebla Galáctico

Viticultores de Lapuebla is the project of José Luis Heras and Noelia Rodríguez, from the family behind Bodegas Heras Cordon. Their aim is to rescue small, ancestral vineyards in and around Lapuebla de Labarca, in Rioja Alavesa, before they disappear, some of them planted as far back as 1920.

Each wine comes from a single parcel or a small group of old-vine plots, picked by hand into 20-kilo boxes and made in small volumes, from 10,000 bottles down to a few hundred. The goal is finesse and a sense of place: a tribute to the families and the winegrowing tradition of Lapuebla.

Galáctico comes from a single vineyard of Garnacha planted in 1920 at Alto de San Antón, in Alesón, 700 metres above sea level, on iron-rich clay. Only 700 bottles were made.

Deep, bright ruby with violet edges. Orange blossom, strawberry and cherry with soft spice, cardamom and cinnamon. Powerful and structured, with ripe, integrated tannins, refreshing acidity and a long, persistent finish.
